NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(By A. P. Night Wire).—A married man can afford publicly to kiss women, "R. J. Finlow, first officer of the Cunard liner Antonio, declined today to allow himself to be kissed by an actress with more than local reputation for perversity. "I am a single man. I do not know how long I will be a single man; and if I kiss women in all the ports the chances are that I may remain even longer a single man," Finlow said when the actress came aboard with the announced purpose of kissing the captain. As the captain was absent the duty devolved upon Chief Officer Finlow. Married men may scatter carresses with impunity, but single men in doing so would commit a rare indiscretion, the unkissed sailor maintained.

Extensive Maneuvers of Next Year Abandoned

Shortage of Fuel Due to Australian Cruise

Exercises of 1926 to be in
Canal Zone

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Navy has decided to abandon next year tentative plans it had drawn for maneuvers on a large scale off the west coast of South America.

The necessity for conserving fuel for the heavy demands upon that supply in the maneuvers off Hawaii this summer and the subsequent cruise to Australia and New Zealand, together with other considerations of economy, were said at the department today to have precluded any opportunity for naval maneuvers on a large scale next year.

In the late spring or early summer of 1927, however, it is planned to have extensive maneuvers with the Army participating off the east coast of the United States, probably in an effort to test the defenses of New England. Detailed plans for this project have not been drawn.

Such maneuvers as take place next year will be merely regional in scope.

The curtailed program for next year calls for the fleet to base itself in February and March and engage in small exercises in that vicinity with limited participation by troops stationed in the Canal Zone.

The scouting fleet will leave the Canal Zone March 15 for Guantanamo for target practice and further exercises and two months later will sail for home.

The battle fleet will proceed from the canal area to the vicinity of San Pedro and San Diego, Cal., and in June may conduct some minor joint exercises with troops of the Army Corps Area off San Francisco.

FLAGSHIP TO JOIN
CRAFT AT SAN PEDRO

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
SEATTLE, Nov. 28.—The U.S.S.
California, flagship of the Pacific fleet, was in the Seattle Harbor today preparatory to leaving Sunday for Monday for San Pedro to engage in target practice and maneuvers. The fleet flag will be transferred to the Pennsylvania when the California reaches San Pedro.

Motion Picture Actress
Files Cross-Complaint on Husband's Charges

The suit of Roy Harlow for divorce from his actress wife, Marie Mosquini, will not be allowed to go by default, it was indicated yesterday when Miss Mosquini filed a cross-complaint.

Harlow came home drunk with rowdy companions, and slept with his clothes on, Miss Mosquini charged. A former divorce action was dismissed and a reconciliation affected on his promise to do better, she related. But she said his repentance was short-lived and he returned to his cups.

Harlow, in his complaint, declared that Miss Mosquini insisted upon keeping their marriage a secret, which embarrassed him, and that she made a practice of coming home from the studios with her make-up on her face.

Miss Mosquini, mother of the actress, whom Harlow has also sued, demanding damages of $10,000, was at the bottom of his domestic troubles, the complaining husband retorted. His wife always sided with her mother and they talked French to each other in his presence, he complained.

Barbarbanell told Officers Towne

"Safeguarding the Soul Against

"Many persons seem unaware of

THEORY OF HUMANITY HAS BEEN HEARD BY WORLD FAMOUS SURGEON

A vision of the wild goats on Santa Catalina Island. These goats are estimated from 20,000 to 30,000 and have been donated by William Wrigley, millionaire owner of Catalina, for the use of glandular science to Dr. Wheeler.

Dr. Wheeler devotes Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to his Los Angeles work and the remainder of the week to San Francisco.

MAN SURGEONS PROCLAIM RECENT PROGRESS IN BATTLE AGAINST OLD AGE

Successfully Employed by Noted California Surgeon for Past Six Years.

With American metropolitan newspapers have printed columns prominently displayed on front pages announcing recent progress in the battle against old age, but Dr. Clayton E. Wheeler, in successful use of a glandular therapy, has been in the forefront of the movement. His article in the Los Angeles Times is intended to acquaint the reader in a general way with the philosophy upon which is based the methods in use, and is written in the interest of science by a staff in the National Research Syndicate.

By Walter E. Smith, A.M., L.L.D.

States has been lengthened by eight years and seven months, and we are just beginning to learn not only how best to prolong life but also how to get most out of every day living.

SCIENCE OF HEALING PROGRESSING

When any man or any group of men become disheartened with any given theory, doctrine or procedure, and set about for a better answer to the problems they have so constantly encountered in following it, then, and only then, progress can be made.

It matters little if it be something mechanical, a creed or a time-honored treatment or operation of a disease, the same practice holds true.

Certainly, there is no standing still in medicine or surgery. What is learned today must, of necessity, be modified tomorrow, as facts are demonstrated and become incontrovertible.

Those who refuse to recognize or condemn any deviation from the course he has followed for years, is soon left far behind in the progressive march of the profession.

Naturally, there must be great conservatism in accepting theories or apparent demonstrations.

The man of receptive mind, regardless of his place in society, will sift for basic principles from the mass of evidence and reach his decision accordingly.

SEVERAL YEARS OF ACID TEST

It is now several years since a young surgeon, then devoting himself to research work in one of California's greatest penal institutions, attracted nationwide interest in definitely establishing relationship of behavior and disease through knowledge of the glandular functions and by this knowledge and skill normed many criminal delinquents.

With the added experience resulting from observation and practice as former Stanford Hospital surgeon, San Francisco Hospital, clinical instructor Stanford University and assistant gynecologist, San Francisco Hospital, Dr. Clayton E. Wheeler foresees the potential trend of endocrinology—the human engine of motive and mental power.

The use of animal substances—glands and other organs—as remedial agents is as old as the healing art itself. The records of Hippocrates reflect it; old manuscripts, still extant in Northern Europe, link such organs with the primitive medical means of the ancient era; the Sanskrit quotes the Hindus as using the macerated gonads of the deer as an elixir to give health and strength.

From such crude beginnings gland therapy has evolved, the French taking the initiative in forming a science, called by them opotherapy. It is to the French that we owe our rudimentary knowledge of the endocrine chain, and that

OVER 8000 OPERATIONS

In establishing clinics in San Francisco and Los Angeles, Dr. Wheeler, by specializing in gland operations, stands at the very top in the number performed. His records show more than 8000 men and women ranging from early youth to those past 80 years of age, and the history of these cases provide a remarkable human document.

Having satisfied himself that the ductless glands—the endocrine chain—were dominant in the human organism, Dr. Wheeler determined to concentrate on this theory, and probably no other European or American surgeon has gone to similar lengths in establishing the correctness of this conviction.

It is comparatively recent that physicians believed that the energy which caused the human organs to perform their various functions was an inherent one. They took it for more or less granted that the secret of this energy never would be found—that the energy that made the heart beat, for example, was a God-given motive power not to be tampered with.

The medical world was astounded when it was definitely established that the brain was not the controlling center of life, but a peculiar combination of gray and white matter, capable of producing thought only when properly controlled by the chemical action of the liquid from the thyroid glands.

Early in his experiments, Dr. Wheeler searched and found young men with improper functioning of the glands, and by supplying the needed deficiency from animals, these mentally old and feeble were restored to usefulness to themselves and to society. Animals deprived of their thyroid glands soon after birth, according to his experiments and that of other scientists, are altogether outgrown by others of the same age within a period of eight to ten months.

Take away from an animal the four little parathyroids, located beside the thyroid, and the effect is absolutely disastrous. The nervous system undergoes a terrific over-exertion, the muscles contract violently, and the subject dies in violent convulsions within a short time. The suprarenal glands, if removed, would cause death by a sort of strange lethargy, known as Addison's disease.

MASTER GLAND OF MANKIND

In a paper contributed more than two years ago, Dr. Wheeler stated that of all the glands in the human system, the gonad, or the reproductive gland, was by far the most important. What had been regarded for centuries as merely a mechanism for the prolongation of the life of the race on earth, according to Dr. Wheeler, operates as one of the greatest and most important parts in our everyday normal physical existence.

Dr. Wheeler pointed to the many examples of men and animals de-

NOT A SPECIFIC BUT LIFE RECONSTRUCTOR

The theory upon which Dr. Wheeler works, and attested by hundreds who have had the operation, is not a specific for this or that disease, but the tissue is restored to such an extent that it easily throws off the disease.

Rheumatism, arthritis, gastro-intestinal disorders, hardening of the arteries, asthma, bronchitis, neuritis, general debility, senility, high blood pressure, extreme nervousness, some forms of epilepsy, diseases incident to old age, disturbance of the glandular system, and a score or more of physical ailments are practically annihilated by this radical departure in surgery.

It should be borne in mind, however, reconstruction of the physical system also has its limitations, and the gland operation should be performed early—before the old age has definitely marked one for its own. Even in these delayed cases death may be averted, and the patient may be able to have been relegated to the dim past may be possible once more.

There are many instances on record at Dr. Wheeler's Los Angeles and San Francisco offices of men and women who were practically invalids and were rehabilitated to a degree which enabled them to lead regular employment after long periods of disability.

THE DR. WHEELER SYSTEM OF GLAND OPERATION

The Dr. Clayton E. Wheeler system of gland operation is quite similar to that employed by the leading European gland surgeons today. This involves a slight operation on the person treated, which does not require transplanting. Under a local anesthetic—novocain—no incision is made in the skin, and the glandular substance is given through injection in the walls of the abdomen of the gland needed, in accordance with the disease of the patient. The glands are selected from the goat, because it is the healthiest animal and free from disease; in some instances a combination of different glands being used. The operation only requires a few minutes and the patient may enter his or her former activities during the same day.

In most instances favorable reaction ensues within a short time after the operation, but in chronic ailments of long standing noticed results are obtained in about twenty days.

THOSE WHO RESPOND QUICKEST TO OPERATION

Often the question is asked Dr. Wheeler, When is the best time in life to take the gland operation? That depends largely with the individual. Men and women at 40 to 50 years of age who have

DUCTLESS GLANDS AND THEIR VALUE TO YOU

Modern methods of gland operations are based on a number of organs, until only a short while ago, kept the scientist puzzled. We now know that these organs play a very essential part in the growth and purification of our bodies and are universally known as "ductless glands"—that is, glands with an internal secretion, also called "endocrine glands."

To enumerate a few of them: The pituitary gland, located in the brain; the thyroid gland, the parathyroid glands, at both sides of the larynx; the thymus gland, which rests on the trachea, commonly known as the wind pipe, at the spot where the latter forks into the bronchial tubes; the adrenal glands, on top of the kidneys, and the sex glands. They all have the characteristic of discharging their secretion into the system directly.

Since the development of the bacterial theory of infection, there is probably no pathological concept that has latterly so dominated modern medicine as the doctrine of the internal secretions of the ductless glands. In virtue of this theory—which, like that of the specific infectious diseases, is founded upon laboratory experimentation—we are what we are, bodily, mentally, sexually, emotionally, facially, largely through the balance or imbalance of certain secretions discharged in minute quantities into the blood by a set of glands which have no excretory ducts communicating with the external world, and upon disturbance of function of one or more of these glands depends a large group of unusual and hitherto unclassified diseases.

SEVEN GLANDS A KEY TO LIFE'S SECRET

Seven glands control the body which in their unified efforts determine health, wealth, achievement, failure, old age and ill health. They control and dominate the character, physique, looks, disposition and the life limit.

Seriousness, deformity, mental stagnation, nervous disorders, imbecility, physical stia and appearance, as is also beauty or lack of it, are determined by glandular functioning.

HUMAN VALUE OF EACH GLAND

The thyroid lies in the neck and expels thyroxin, the fluid which so dominates and determines human endeavor. It governs the speed with which we use the energy that is available in our body. Too much thyroid shows, in many ways; the teeth are small, regular and pearly; features are delicately molded, and brow is high and wide, the fingers long and slender, lips sensitive, and as children they are generally fair complexioned. If there is only a little too much thyroid, the person will show only a slight overaction, overrestlessness and nervousness. If the excess of this hormone is too great the centers of emotion and intellect of the brain will be deeply lowered and we shall have emotional, unstable individuals, prone to the like. As a rule they

CHRONIC DISEASES CURED

"I learned that many diseases which had become chronic had been helped, and in many cases they had been cured where they had not gone too far. I saw that old age itself is a disease, and that, where formerly it had been considered incurable, it is now conceded there is a remedy for it. Disease has been wearing out our organs because they could not resist such attacks and because of their own energies they do not recuperate. Now, with the aid of implanted glands, the organs are able to get fresh start and so defy and resist the creeping old age."

The thymus gland is located below the thyroid and has to do with that period prior to puberty; its action is supposed to be at that time and its continued action, many times, results in the childlike state to be noticed in men and women of mature years. Many adolescent murderers have been known to be possessed of hyper-thymus glandular activity; their acts lacking the judgment of age, yet their minds and bodies possessing mature tendencies. The impulses of childhood, still to be found in the older person, result in loss of judgment and hot-headedness which allows acts of law-breaking to result.

The pineal gland is located in the head, near the base of the skull, and acts during childhood as a brake and exerts a softening influence upon the acts of the person.

The parathyroid glands are four small glands located on the thyroid and are four minute organs, weighing nearly one-half of a gram. They have much to do with the absorption and secretion of mineral salts of the body, and are important therefore to the nervous system and the bones.

DR. WHEELER DIVIDES WEEK BETWEEN LOS ANGELES AND SAN FRANCISCO

To meet and serve the greatest number who desire to consult and have gland operations performed, Dr. Wheeler maintains a residence office in Los Angeles, 3173 Wilshire Boulevard, where he is to be found Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of each week. The remainder of the week is devoted to his San Francisco office, 535 Powell street.

Where he advises a gland operation, Dr. Wheeler operates and has no assistant surgeon. At times operations are scheduled from four to eight weeks in advance.

In the two cities something like 8000 men and women have been operated on by him. Hundreds of these patients claim almost miraculous benefits and have written letters by the score expressing gratitude for their return to health and happiness.

Number of Hold-upsOld Texan Disappointed if

Days Recounted

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Nov. 22.—J. C. Brown, long a resident of San Antonio and who was a stagecoach driver for more than ten years, was probably held up and robbed more than any other man in that business. It was such a frequent occurrence with him that he declares he looked forward to the experience on every trip and was disappointed when road agents didn't suddenly jump at him somewhere along the route.

Brown was born in Clark county, Iowa, but he says he does not remember the day or the year of his birth. He came to Texas in 1872 and almost immediately began his career as a stage driver and the victim of numerous hold-ups. The first stage he drove was from Fort Concho to Central on the Staked Plains from 1872 to about 1875. He then drove the El Paso mail from Quitman to El Paso for Picklin & Sawyer, owners of the line. In 1875 he went to San Angelo and drove out of there until 1882.

HIS FIRST HOLD-UP
It was in December, 1877, that his first hold-up took place at Peg Leg, which is said to have been named for the first stage robber to operate there, a man with a wooden leg. Brown had passengers on this trip. One of them was Lieut. C. S. Ayres, one of the United States marshals of that district. The other two men were ranchmen.

"Three robbers suddenly sprang out from the brush in front of the horses," Brown continued, "stopping them and covering us with pistols and Winchester. One of them yelled, 'Hands up, boys. They ordered me to drive off into the brush about 200 yards out of the road. When we got there, they made all of the passengers get out, lined them up and took all they had. Then they cut open the mail sacks and rifled them. The leader of this band of outlaws was Rube Boyce.

"The attack was so sudden and unlooked-for that neither I nor any of the passengers was aware that the road agents were in the vicinity until they had made their sudden appearance. I well remember how furious Lieut. Ayres was. He had been given no chance to get at his pistol. Ayres swore and the marshals swore still more, but the robbers laughed.

"Boyce was captured some time after this robbery, pleaded guilty and was given a long term of imprisonment, not, however, before he had had the pleasure of again holding me up. I seemed to be a favorite with him. This robbery was committed at almost the same place as the first one."

LONG AND SHORT OF IT
Brown's next hold-up was on the road from Mason to Fredericksburg after he had driven a year on that run.

Going into detail in relating another hold-up which occurred between Fredericksburg and Grape Creek, he said:

"This was indeed a thrilling experience. The agents were the celebrated 'long and short' men. One of them was less than five feet tall, while the other was six feet and several inches. I had one passenger on this trip, a man by the name of Henry Miller, the horse-shoer for the stage company, who was going to town to buy a coffin for old man Dietler, who had kept the store and was postmaster at Grape Creek. Miller had the money for the coffin and Dietler's widow had given me 50 cents to purchase some meat and bread for her. While we were going along leisurely two men rode up behind me and immediately suspected bandits and whispered to Miller. He promptly dropped the coffin money into his boot. He had hardly done so before the two men, who had dismounted and left their horses in the brush, came out in the road in front of us and ordered us to halt. They proceeded to help themselves to the contents of my express packages and then rifled the letters. They also got Mrs. Dietler's 50 cents from me, although I asked them to let me keep it, as it belonged to a poor widow and I was going to buy some food for her."

Those same men again held up Brown's stage in 1882 near Fredericksburg at old Fort Martin Scott. He had four passengers at that time.

YOUTHS IN GAME
Brown's next experience with road agents occurred about two miles from Fredericksburg, the robbers being a couple of youths, about 19 or 20 years of age. The stage driver declared that the youths' bandits were far more dangerous than the members of the Rube Boyce gang, who were trained in the business of holding up and robbing stages. Not long after this hold-up two outlaws were killed by officers who were trying to arrest them, and from the description given by the police Brown said he was sure the men were the same ones who had held him up on this trip.

It was in 1883 that Brown had his next experience with road agents. He was then driving from San Angelo to Abilene, and was held up several times while on that run. The first time he was robbed on this route was just on the edge of the town of San Angelo. He was alone on the stage and was on his way to Abilene. The robbers got nothing for their trouble.

"One cold night in the winter of 1884, while I was on that same run," Brown said, "a lone bandit called my stage and proceeded to go through the mail and express packages. Just about that time the other stage came along with five passengers on it. The outlaws then left me and held up the other coach. One of the passengers was a ranchman by the name of Berry. After the robber had gone his way, I asked Berry what he had had to give up. 'Nine hundred and fifty,' he replied. 'I remarked that that was a lot of money. It was cents not dollars,' Berry said."

VISITS OLD INDIAN TRIBE

Mining Man, Host of Seris, Tells How Brave Outran
Wild Outlaw Mare on Plains

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
GUAYMAS (Mex.) Nov. 22.—In an exploration trip that took him to the remote and unsettled coast bordering the Gulf of California, Leroy Hastings, a British mining prospector, came into contact with the tribe of Seri Indians and for six months he made his home in their settlement of primitive jacals upon Tiburón Island. Hastings arrived here a few days ago in an open rowboat, accompanied by two Mexican employees of the La Joya Ranch, which borders the coast, eighty miles north of here. Many of the stories which have been published from time to time of the ferociousness of the Seris and about members of this tribe were doubtless due to their timidity. He said that the many libelous things which have been said and written about members of this tribe were doubtless due to their timidity. He believes that he is one of the few white men who ever gained their confidence.

Mr. Hastings is well known to many American mining men of Mexico. He was formerly interested in a paying property in the Ortiz district and he has prospected all over the western part of this country. His visit to the tribe of Seri Indians was largely for the purpose of getting a thrill of adventure out of meeting and associating with the little-known people. He declared that in language, custom and physical appearance they are different from any other known tribe. One of the most remarkable traits of these peculiar people is their unusual power of endurance. Some of the men can outrun horses, deer and other animals.

"On one occasion a race between one of the giant Indians and an untamed broncho known as the 'red mare' took place," Mr. Hastings said. "This animal had the reputation of having been an 'outlaw' so long that when finally caught and branded she was too wild to be of any use for either work or breeding. She had nearly killed an Indian and a Mexican who had undertaken to break her and had been turned loose again. The mare had been branded by Pascual Encinas, owner of the Costa Rica ranch. She never came in to the ranch except in the driest weather when all the outlying water holes had gone dry and she was forced to steal in at night for a drink from the big tanks in the corral. It had seemed into a saying on the Costa Rica and other ranches, when a particularly bad spell of drought occurred, that it was bad enough to bring the 'red mare' to the ranch, which resulted in the capture and death of the broncho, took place. Encinas told the foreman to keep the mare penned up for the night. Then he sent a note to the Seri village for Pablo, one of the most noted runners of the tribe. The mare was used for nothing but killing, he said, and he was going to match her in a split race with the Indian.

BONES AND WHIPCORD
"If any man could run down a wild horse, Pablo was the one. He was six feet four and weighed 180, all bone and whipcord. Encinas said that he was going to turn the red mare loose in the morning and that if Pablo could run six feet four, without an ounce of fat on his body, he gave little promise of the power that was in him. Dark as a negro, with long straight hair falling almost to his shoulders and white teeth gleaming, he presented a sinister and savage appearance. His powerful neck, great race-horse chest and broad hips were his most striking points. Had it not been for these remarkably developed features, his scrag-like waist and sunken abdomen would have made him look almost delicate.

"As the vaguero rode into the central the mare started for the open gate. She shied from the little crowd outside and swept around the enclosure again. Pablo was waiting at the gate, his foot forward with his hands on his knees, every muscle like a coiled spring ready to be released.

JUMP FOR JUMP
"The red mare came around again at a gallop, and as the vaguero made a feint at her with his rope she swerved and dashed through the gate like a fury, winner at the wire. Almost at the instant she flashed by, Pablo was in the dust at her heels, but it was a standing start against a flying one, and by the time he had got into his stride she had increased her lead to fifteen or twenty feet. She headed straight across the wide dusty plain, and the mare by the tail, then disappeared for a minute in a cloud of dust. As it cleared away, the knife flashed at her throat.

"The distance was measured, a scant 250 yards. No one held a stop watch on the performance, but the race was a recordbreaker. 'The Seris are a race of giants, for the most part, some of them measuring six feet seven inches, and nearly all of them one or two inches over six feet. The women average taller than white men. It is their custom to kill the weakling children and the members of the tribe who are too old and feeble to shift for themselves. In color and features they are more like negroes than Indians and some of their traits and superstitions seem to have a distinctly African tinge. It is a capital offense for one of them to marry outside of the tribe—and in former times the principal sinet of their religion, according to the neighboring Mexicans, was to kill every one they met who was not of their own blood. The Mexicans fear them, and endow them with almost fabulous powers of endurance and desert cunning.

SKILLED AT TRACKING
"A Seri can trail a man across country by starlight and it is no trick at all for them to run down deer on foot. They trail almost as well as dogs, running by eye instead of by nose. They can go at a trot and keep a deer on their trail through the brush no matter what sort of ground it crosses. When a Seri starts out after a deer, he keeps after it at a swift wolf trot.

PEACE PACT ON COAL OFFERED

Pinchot's Plan Includes Eleven Points

Proposes Five-Year Contract and Wage Quiz

Provides for Pledge Against Another Strike

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

HARRISBURG (Pa.) Nov. 22.—Gov. Pinchot today submitted to leaders of the United Mine Workers, gathered here at his request, an eleven-point plan for a new wage agreement, including a provision for immediate termination of the present suspension and resumption of mining operations.

The plan outlined by the Governor proposes a five-year contract, creation of a joint board of investigation and award to study the industry and determine whether increased wages can be granted without increased prices, a modified form of check-off without actual full recognition of the union, equalization of wages by the board of conciliation established under the Roosevelt settlement of 1933, and maintenance of 1935 coal-price schedule.

The Governor set forth three conditions for any settlement, the first of which, he said, "should be very practicable assurance to the public that the price of anthracite will not be raised by the operators."

The second condition, the Governor declared, should be that no other interruption of supply, like the present, will not soon take place and the third should be "that as honest effort will be made to prevent another interruption of supply from ever taking place."

After a brief consideration of the proposals behind closed doors the scale committee decided to meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow to go into them more fully. Until that meeting, which will be held in Harrisburg, President Lewis declined to discuss the situation.

Seal Rupture With a Quarter

Now you can throw away those old, worn, chafing, irritating, and heavy makeshift devices. For a well known American scientist has found a new easy way to support ruptures caused by use of a quarter of an ounce. Not only do you do away with the objectionable pressure and tight strapping, but you eliminate the "coming down" rupture when running, straining, sneezing, exercising, etc.—which too frequently leads to strangulation. So great has been the praise of this wonderful device that it is being offered in national contests for the sale of the best device for the cure of hernia.

PICTURE OF REAL QUEEN WINS HEART

Herr Ignats Sues Gertrude for Deception and Gets Judgment of $10

(BY CARL SCHULZKE DISPATCH)

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—When Herr Ignats, owner of a flourishing beer shop, advertised for a wife he received scores of replies, but the one which pleased him the most was from a woman who sent a photograph of herself in ermine wraps and possessing queenly beauty.

Herr Ignats fell in love with the photograph, so much so that he made a journey to Heidelberg to claim his prize beauty. But when he reached the square where he was to meet his bride-to-be he was unable to see anyone having quite the beauty of the photograph.

While he was wandering aimlessly about, a short stumpy woman came up to him and said, "I'm your Gertrude, Herr Ignats."

Herr Ignats secretly gave the photograph he carried with him the careful double O and then compared it with Gertrude's. They didn't match up, and Herr Ignats told his companion so. Then she wept, confessing that she wanted a husband so much that she had sent him a photograph of the Queen of Rumania in place of her own.

Instead of showing pity, Ignats sued Gertrude for deception and she was expelled from the court awarded him his fare, something more than $10.

GIRL BOMBER PLEADS LOVE

Young Woman Held in Chicago Says She Did Whatever "Big, Blond Viking" Told Her to Do

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Humdrum life in a Battle Creek restaurant, three growing boys to feed and clothe, blind trust in a bad man and too much love for him--these were the elements that landed Mrs. Lena Schrock Rice in the custody of State's Attorney Crowe as Chicago's first woman bomber.

That is the situation, if Lena's story be credited. She says she is not hard-boiled, neither does she act it. She adds tearfully that she actually became a bomber without her knowledge and through no will of her own simply because she blindly did what Fred Wanquist, "that big, blond viking" she loved told her to do.

Various law enforcement bodies today began a rigid investigation of the bombing trust, six of whose agents have been captured.

Wanquist is said to have made a complete confession of the workings of the bombing trust, giving names of employers, where the dynamite was obtained, the prices

HUGE PROJECT IN BALANCE

Verde Water District Claims Involving $23,000,000 in Bonds Held by Senator Cameron

PHOENIX, Nov. 28.—The hearing of the claims of the Verde River Irrigation and Power District, refused for lack of time during the visit here of the Senate Commission on Irrigation, was taken up yesterday before Senator Cameron.

Upon the evidence submitted in expected to depend whether further time for financing will be given the district by the Secretary of the Interior.

The district has voted $23,000,000 in bonds, claiming rights to water for irrigation of more than 100,000 acres and for generation of about 50,000 horsepower.

Two factions were present at the meeting. One supports the district management and its plan and the other favors refusal of further extensions and would accept an offer made by the Verde River Valley Water Users' Association for assimilation of a large acreage of Paradise Valley lands into the association, this to follow association construction of a storage dam on the Verde and of canals above the present irrigated district.

The Verde district was given rights about five years ago contingent upon showing of financial capability. About 300 landowners are interested. The hearing is expected to continue several days.

Accused of forgeries amounting to $900, Mrs. E. Hutchinson, for many years an employee of the County Assessor's office, living at 3543 1/2 Tacoma avenue, was arrested suddenly yesterday morning and held incommunicado in the County Jail.

Deputy Constable Cuno is seeking another woman, said to be a companion and business associate of Mrs. Hutchinson.

The complaint against Mrs. Hutchinson, who is widely known among county officials, charges her on three counts with forging the name of Frank Turner to ledger accounts for wages which Turner declares he has never received.

According to George Ryan of the District Attorney's office, who investigated the case at the request of Deputy Labor Commissioner William Steinecke, Turner, Arthur Finch and a man named McArthur were arrested last Friday night on similar charges. The two men solicited advertising for the Los Angeles Times and the woman, Mrs. Hutchinson, is accused of having fraudulently induced Garrison's name and have cashed several checks received.

QUOTATIONS FOR COTTON TURN DOWN

Drop Held Reaction to Recent Good Advance on World Markets

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The cotton market developed weakness from the opening today on scattered local liquidation and more Southern selling. It followed yesterday's lower tendency, with Liverpool having responded by futures and spot prices.

Prices were carried down about 25 to 30 points for the active trading months from yesterday's closing before the break was checked by renewed good trade buying through some spot houses. December contracts went off to about 34 1/2 cents with January and March declining to about 19 1/2 cents; May under 19 1/2 cents; and July, 18 1/4 cents.

No new developments appeared in the general cotton situation. It simply was a reactionary movement in the market here and at Liverpool from the recent good advances, the result of a scattered liquidation, with less spot demand on the southern and Liverpool markets than lately on the fulfillment of purchases for November contract deliveries.

Exports for November last year totaled 1,325,000 bales. That was the largest movement for a month in several years and will be exceeded by the clearances of the next few days.

ADVANCE OF INDIAN SINCE 1890 CITED

POPULATION GAIN PLACED AT 100,000 WHILE SCHOOLS INCREASE FROM 1 TO 400

The historical note is sounded in the statement made by Chief William Red Fox, a full-blooded Sioux.

He notes that, after markedly decreasing from 1840 to 1890, the Indian population has been increasing ever since, rising from 245,000 in 1890 to 344,000 today. Of whom 100,000 are nearly one-half the Indians are on 311 reservations and improved sanitary conditions are credited with the increase, says the Cincinnati Times-Star. There was but one Indian school in 1890; now there are fifty-seven preparatory schools and colleges; 111 boarding schools and 223 day schools; all attended by 55,000 Indian students.

This well-informed aboriginal observer notes that everywhere goes "teachers are instructing children carefully in the traditions of the Indian, for whom there is a universal respect." The people in general, he remarks, "do us honor and strive to aid us and we are grateful." One evidence of their gratitude that he notes was Indian participation in the World War, where 3000 Indians came under draft, but 15,000 volunteered; 6000 went overseas and 1000 died there.

Thus a stable and hopeful present has emerged from past of reciprocal violence. Indian methods of warfare have gained a unique reputation for cruelty, but in the collisions of an earlier day it was seldom the red man who was to blame. The major causes of our border conflicts were three: the French instigated the savages to attack the British settlements; the British instigated the savages to attack the French settlements; the men of the border precipitated Indian attacks by violating treaty agreements and entering upon Indian lands.

The battle at Point Pleasant in 1774, which West Virginia was commemorated recently, was a signal incident of white unfaith and Cornstalk, the Shawnee chief, who killed the Indians there, is recognized as a far nobler figure than Dunsmuir, Virginia's royal governor, who provoked them to hostilities.

NORDSKOG HITS PHONE BUREAU

Executive Committee Held Failure by Expert

Resigning of Mayor's Board Asserted Subterfuge

Investigations Interfered With, He Avers

Characterizing efforts by members of the executive committee to reorganize the general committee of the Mayor's telephone commission as "just a subterfuge," Arne Nordskog yesterday issued a statement declaring that politicians are trying to delay and block the telephone rate investigation. Nordskog, independent rate expert and chairman of the public utility group of the Mayor's committee, charged that the executive committee "has proven its inability to cope with the situation."

"There are a few members of the committee," he said, "who have done everything possible to delay the telephone investigation and have so far prevented any definite action by the subcommittee that really wanted results. While some members were doing everything in their power to get into action, other members were trying to prevent such action."

The recommendation that all members resign is only a confession to the public that the executive committee has failed to properly function and has proven its inability to cope with the situation. The reason they have failed to function is what the telephone rate payers of Los Angeles would like to know. If they have their inability to even get started in two months' time, why should they ask further delay while the public in whose interest they are supposed to be working?

The telephone users of Los Angeles have been compelled to pay the Bell company more than $1,000,000 in excess charges while the executive committee has spent two months in discovering that they cannot cope with the situation with any hope of success. The citizens throughout the city are demanding action. They want an honest investigation. I have spoken to many audiences in every section of the city and they are not in a mood to wait until the Bell company enforces the metered service whereby they will murder the citizens of many millions of dollars additional revenue.

If the executive committee feels incompetent, then its members should resign. They cannot charge the other committee with incompetency when they have prevented them from acting. If the aspiring politicians have not been able to handle the rest of the members, then they should drop out of the committee and try more fruitful methods in the work of the public utility commission.

Director Cruze Leaves to Film Tripoli Scenes

James Cruze, Lucky director, his wife, Betty Compson, film actress, and a camera man will leave today for Tripoli to begin work on "Old Ironsides," a story of the war of Stephen Decatur and the Barbary pirates. Miss Compson does not plan to act in the picture.

Cruze will take exterior shots and study locations. He plans to be gone about two months. "Old Ironsides," the famous frigate now at Philadelphia, will be used in the production.

Production plans are reported to be of a more elaborate nature, involving expenditure of $3,000,000. Wallace Berry already has been included in the cast.

Trial of Damage Actions Filed by Wrestler Opens

Miller, champion, and his wife, Albert Miller, for damages totaling approximately $75,000, which they demand from the Motor Transit Company for injuries sustained in a motor-bus accident, went to trial before a jury in Judge Wood's court yesterday.

Among Miller's claims was one for $5000 which he lost by not being able to keep at wrestling engagements. The company contended the accident was unavoidable.

MET HIS MATCH

The fresh young traveling salesman put on his most seductive smile as the pretty waitress gazed up to his table in the hotel dining room to get his order, and remarked:

"Nice day, little one."

"Yes, it is," she replied. "And so was the country and I'm a respectable girl and my brother is the coachman in this hotel, and he was a college football player and weighs 300 pounds; last week he kept at wrestling engagements. The company contended the accident was unavoidable."

Antagonistic Cities 9

Minneapolis and St. Paul are still at it. Something must be done about these two towns. This one comes from St. Paul. Minneapolis man drifted into the sister city, looked suspiciously at a fruit seller's display, picked up a big watermelon and asked with a sneer:

"Is this the largest apple you have in St. Paul?"

"[He] belittled the proprietor. 'Put that grape down!'"

Another Paradox

"Coal miners and operators haven't agreed, because both have a greed," is how the Wall Street Journal puts it. (Boston Transcript.)

American Firm to Receive

Reclamation Plan

Coming Budget Will Include
Bonded Obligations

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

(BY CABLE-REUTERS DISPATCH)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—

According to information given out here, the government is in the process of closing a 100,000,000-peso contract with an American contracting firm to build a series of large dams and other irrigation structures. The statement is in line with President Calles' recently announced scheme to establish a gigantic irrigation, colonization and agricultural plan to develop waste lands, which is known to be upmost in the President's thoughts, especially since his return from an independent plan of government-owned properties and already established agricultural schools.

As published, the statement announced the coming budget will include an increase in taxation, but only during the coming year, in order to help meet the costs to which the various states will be benefited will be called upon to help bear on a prorata basis.

It is estimated that next year's income will amount to close to $40,000,000 pesos, which would establish a new record.

Governed by a theory that the country possessing the greatest amount of oil will figure among the world's most powerful nations, Mexico intends to put into effect extensive plans leading toward the establishment of giant oil storage reserves which will be kept in storage tanks to be built at strategic points throughout the republic during the coming year, according to a statement published by Ec-celator.

The capacity of the smallest of these depositories will be 400,-

000 barrels, always ready for disposal at any moment. Making use of concessions held by the National Railways of Mexico, which allow rights of way for Mexico to build oil pipelines, the government intends to extend operations beyond the borders of the rights of way into such Federal territory as provides for the construction of such places as the Pan-American agreement places at the government's disposal.

Gift Certificates

Perhaps it's too early to talk about them. Generally they are last minute selections, but busy men, managers, and people who are wont to give many gifts, find that they never go wrong when they give a May Company gift certificate.

Pretty put up in holiday attire, the gift certificate is worth its face value any time for the written amount. It's not a check, but just a carte blanche order for the gift wanted.

And where could you give them a wider selection for everything, from a baby grand piano to a pack of playing cards, than at The May Company? Gifts from far and near—many shores—many people—many places—the world's shops in one.

So whether you are buying in a wholesale way for many employees or customers, or whether you are buying for your own immediate family, you can't go wrong, when the recipient chooses his or her own present.

And that's just what it amounts to—The gift certificate.

Gift Certificates

Perhaps it's too early to talk about them. Generally they are last minute selections, but busy men, managers, and people who are wont to give many gifts, find that they never go wrong when they give a May Company gift certificate.

Prettily put up in holiday attire, the gift certificate is worth its face value any time for the written amount. It's not a check, but just a carte blanche order for the gift wanted.

And where could you give them a wider selection for everything, from a baby grand piano to a pack of playing cards, than at The May Company? Gifts from far and near—many shrewd people—many places—the world's shops in one.

So whether you are buying in a wholesale way for many employees or customers, or whether you are buying for your own immediate family, you can't go wrong when the recipient chooses his or her own present.

And that's just what it amounts to—The gift certificate.

PROGRAMS BOOKED AT KHJ THREE MONTHS AHEAD

Builders' Finance Presents Treat in Special Musicales for Radio Patrons

BY PAUL SHERIDY
With the height of the radio season at hand, and reception of the best of the year, KHJ has feature programs booked into the coming year, with every night for more than three months already engaged, and station attaches rapidly completing the roster of artists who will entertain the hosts of the station with concerts even surpassing the broadcasts of the past.

Since the inception of The Times radio, never has there been an great a demand for time on the program, with the sponsors vying with each other to secure nights.
Christmas week will be marked by particularly fine programs, with elaborate plans made for the annual Christmas party, featuring the multitude of child stars of KHJ, which will be held this year in the First Methodist Church, linked to the studio through the remote-control system.

Last night the studio canceled the frolic of the studio artists usually held from 11:30 until 12:30 a.m. each Saturday night, but patrons of the station were not deprived of the music of Art Hickman's orchestra from the Hickman Hotel until midnight. The longer broadcast of dancing selections made a hit with people listening in as the phones were kept ringing with requests.

The special concert given by the Builders' Finance Association from 8 until 10 o'clock was an exceptionally well-rounded series of musical compositions, featuring the Titian Trio in a wide repertoire of instrumental selections. This favorite ensemble is always well received over the air. Gladys Blackwell, popular soprano soloist, was present, with Lillian Arel serving as accompanist as well as piano soloist.

The lively portion of the program was given by three able troupe of the microphone, Hatch
Graham and his band; Arthur Raymond Hill, tenor, and Les Rossini, the "Big Man of KHJ."
These three, known everywhere in the radius of the station, performed with great credit, giving many of their old favorites, and also new novelties that again secured with their unmissable audience.

From 7:30 until 8 o'clock, the broadcast was given featuring with David Durand, the "Little Boy Blue," Jack Harte, 3-year-old boy star; Henrietta Poland, the "Little Forest-Me-Not," Marian
Woodley, soprano soloist, and E.
Pomeroy, harmonica and autoharp, all featuring the children's hour, which had "Cousin Jim" Beardley as guest announcer.

The ever-popular California Blue Boys were on the matinee program of the Pacific States Electric Company with Noretta, the singer of personality songs, and other entertainers, with the Egyptian Ballroom Orchestra, giving the noon hour of dance music.

Tomorrow the tower studio again will observe its silent Monday, but attaches as usual completing arrangements for the ensuing six days, filled with broadcast arrangements. Many features will mark the week, with special evening concerts from 8 until 10 o'clock each night.

ADVANCE MADE IN RADIO ART

Increase in Tubes Followed Enthusiasts

Distance Was First Lure to Demands

Unique Shield on Sets of Stromberg-Carlson

"The development of radio has been marked by several distinct steps," states Mr. Gilbert Woodhill of the Woodhill-Hulse Electric Company, distributors of the Stromberg-Carlson radio receiver. "When radio first came into popularity three years ago the great demand was for distance—the more the better. The novelty of being able to sit at home and hear voices and music hundreds and sometimes thousands of miles away entranced radio fans everywhere. The second step occurred when the long speaker appeared on the market and came into popular favor. Popular demand then insisted that radio receivers have volume as well as distance capabilities. Accordingly radio sets changed from the popular one-tube affairs to those having three or more.

Then as the crowded condition of the air became felt, a third demand was added to these two. This demand was for selectivity—selectivity sufficient to bring in but one station at a time without interference from others.

Only lately, two more demands have been evidenced—simplicity and musical instrument quality. The demand for perfect tone quality is necessary because the radio is now a musical instrument and the speech and music which come from the loud speaker must be a faithful reproduction of that which enters the microphone.

The first problem taken up was that of distance. Such fine success had been gained from the five-tube neodymium receiver put out by the company last year that the engineers decided to use the same circuit. And yet in order to get greater distance and get it more frequently, another tube must be added—but how?

EUROPEAN ARTIST USES ROTOFOR

Parisian Photo Engraver Radio Fan

Gets Distant Points on Set

REMARKABLE long distances on the Roto-for are reported by Eduard LaMillier, Mr. LaMillier, who recently arrived in Los Angeles from Paris is a specialist on high-class photo engraving by day and a genuine radio fan by night.

Within the last week he has tuned in on stations at Boise, Idaho, Des Moines, Iowa, and as far east as Cincinnati, Ohio. He uses an 11-tube aerial.

"I have tried practically every radio on the market both in this country and in Europe," said Mr. LaMillier yesterday, "and I have never found one which gives greater satisfaction than the Roto-for. Its tonal qualities are superb. Its selectivity is amazing. The single dial control is perfect. All interference is eliminated. I can get stations 1500 to 2000 miles away as clearly and distinctly as I can get KJL. I predict a great future for the Roto-for."

RADIO TAKES POSITION OF STAPLE LINE

Experimental Era Over and Public Demands Sets Be Uniformly Good

Recognition of radio by the general public as an established, staple commodity, instead of an interesting and novel device, is a profoundly important development of the past year, according to W. K. Glasby of Pacific Wholesale Radio, Inc.

Mr. Glasby's opinion is interesting because it combines the viewpoints both of the radio business and the radio technician. He is both a sales manager and a technical expert for his company, and in the two fields is highly regarded throughout the West.

"As recently as a year ago, a large portion of the public, and in the two fields is highly regarded throughout the West."

"But it is my observation that such an attitude has all but completely disappeared. Radio, in the public esteem, has taken its place as a staple commodity, and the public has no greater resistance in selling his sets than the motor car or music dealer."

"You can see a definite reaction of the attitude throughout the entire country. With stabilization of the price in the public mind has come stabilization of manufacturing. There are fewer wildcat factories springing up, even large, established companies are combining for greater economy and greater efficiency in manufacturing. Much the same thing is happening among distributing agencies."

Granting that radio has attained the dignity of a staple product, it certainly has a big field ahead. There are only between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 radio sets in use, as against 9,000,000 automobiles. Radio certainly has many inducements as either of the other two and consequently should have just as big a sale.

GERMAN AMATEURS FOLLOW OUR LEAD

(BY CARL EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

BERLIN (Germany) Nov. 28.—Transmitting radio amateurs in this country are rapidly organizing their section of the International Amateur Radio Union along the same lines that have placed the American Radio Relay League in the forefront of radio amateurs of the world. The German amateurs have formulated a set of rules governing the activities of transmitting stations, have organized an exchange of technical ideas and prepare a periodical dealing with the activities of their section of the I.A.R.U. This paper, "QST," lists calls, describes stations and serves as a forum for the discussion of problems in much the same fashion as the older and better known "QST," official publication of the American amateurs.

A group of French scientists, artists and men of letters has been formed under the name of "Radio Art et Pensée," with the object of using radio to disseminate knowledge and appreciation of French achievements in art, science and literature.

NOVEL RADIO DEVICE GIVES COLOR MUSIC

Patent arrangements have just been completed by Mrs. Margaret C. Thomas of Los Angeles for a unique radio appliance, which will be a novel and useful contrivance with equal facilities for education, display and advertising. The invention, through adaptation of tubes and other parts when hooked-up with a receiver produces different designs in changing colors in response to sound vibrations. The mechanism will be especially well adapted for educational purposes as it gives the full beauty of music through the color flashes in perfect accord with the sounding music, with the color flashes in the tubes giving the accent and time better than it could be done by other best devices, even permitting the instruction of deaf persons in dancing.

Perfected Simplicity

WITHOUT removing either hand from the two Selectors of the new Stromberg-Carlson, 6-tube, Dual Control Receiver, you can tune four radio frequency circuits to peak resonance on distant or local signals.

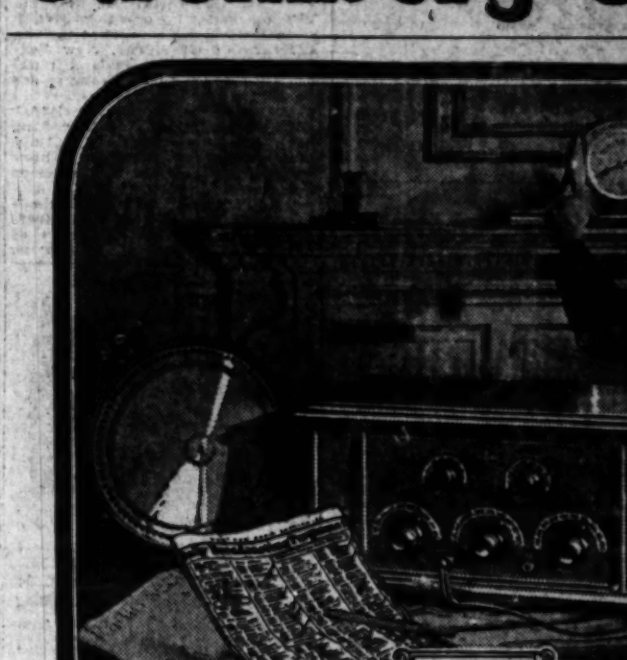

In spite of the fact that the No. 601 Receiver has one more tuned radio frequency circuit than ordinary receivers it does away with shifting of hands to this, that or the other control. Stromberg-Carlson's more than thirty years' experience in voice transmission and reception has shown the way to increase radio's distance and selective possibilities while decreasing the number of dials. Also—how to increase audio amplification without additional tubes while attaining true tone quality for every note of the musical scale.

An authorized Stromberg-Carlson Dealer will gladly demonstrate these great advancements in radio.

Latest Invention Saves Men on Ill-fated Italian Vessel Waterlogged and Sinking at Sea

Working rapidly and praying for a miracle to save them, the twenty-seven members of the crew of the ill-fated Italian vessel Ignazio Florio, water-logged and helpless, were literally snatched from the grim hand of death by the most important of recent developments in radio science.

Repeated S.O.S. calls on the night of October 31 brought the steamship President Harding to the aid of the Ignazio Florio, but so terrible was the sea that transfer of the crew was impossible for almost two days. Twice during her watch, the President Harding was buffeted to many miles from the scene of the wreck, but the fears of the Florio's master were still on the second evening by the welcome message from Capt. Paul O. Harding of the steamship President Harding. "Do not worry. If we lose you, we will find you with our radio compass."

In the short reassuring message lay the result of the uncommon vision, courage and ingenuity of one of the foremost radio scientists today, Dr. Frederick A. Kolster. With the radio compass, Dr. Kolster has without question saved the lives of more men at sea than has any invention since radio has come into being.

Dr. Kolster was for eight years head of the radio section of the United States Bureau of Standards at Washington, and his contributions to radio are manifold. He will be remembered also as having acted as technical advisor to the American delegation at the international radio conference in London, Eng., and for his active part in recent attempts to employ modern radio science to the safeguard of human life.

Equipped with the radio compass, the ship's master can find his direction even in the thickest of fog. No longer need he depend solely upon the stars or upon uncertain messages from distant ships.

The United States Navy employs the radio compass. Most merchant vessels, including the giant Leviathan, are now equipped with the Kolster invention. It is common belief, therefore, that in the very near future the Kolster radio compass will be a part of the equipment of every vessel plying the seas, large or small, and will be classed in importance with lifeboats and ordinary wireless communication.

Aviatrix Does Charleston to Radio

Mounts Atwater-Kent on Ship

DANCERS have pranced and twirled their ways through the intricacies of the Charleston almost everywhere with varying degrees of success but it remained for Gladys Roy literally to put the art on a higher plane.

In other words, Miss Roy who is an aviatrix, went right up in the air, also literally speaking, over a suggestion that she might do a few steps. We did live in that garden, she said, "until your mother ate out of house and home."

where death is concerned—doing stunts on top of airplanes among the clouds or dropping in on old Mother Earth for a call with a parachute. She was out at Clover Field near Santa Monica talking to Montee, winner of the national air race from California to Long Island and one of the best known pilots in the country. Montee was examining the center section of the top wing of a plane which had been braced and strengthened to bear a man's weight.

That center section is strong enough to do Charleston to now," Montee said, banteringly. "Want to try it, Gladys?"

"Yes, sir, that's my baby," she replied, for she seemed just another thrill.

However, she had to have music and as Montee's plane wasn't built to carry a jazz orchestra, he suggested they try music by radio. Montee got in touch with his friend, Ray Thomas, head of Ray Thomas, Inc., distributor of Atwater-Kent radios.

In a short time a five-tube Atwater-Kent set arrived at Clover Field and was fastened on top of the plane. Then they consulted broadcasting programs and found some that were music listed.

Owing to the exhaust of the powerful airplane engine making a loud-speaker impracticable, Miss Roy adjusted head phones and taking her position on top of the plane, tuned in.

Montee took off and while waiting for the proper music Miss Roy tried out a few practice steps to test the wind resistance. Then it happened:

"Yes, sir, that's my baby," she replied, for she seemed just another thrill.

Police Force to be Increased by Ten Members

For the first Sunday since the late Abbot Kinney founded the city of Venice more than twenty years ago, the public dance halls of that beach resort will be closed today, as the result of the consolidation of Venice with Los Angeles, which became effective last Wednesday morning. Sunday public dancing is prohibited in Los Angeles, so that a makeshift closing at midnight last night in Venice, and legally could not be turned on again until one minute past midnight tonight. The Los Angeles City Council has been requested by the Venice amusement men to place Venice in a "dry" zone from Los Angeles Sunday closing laws, but as yet has taken no action on the request.

Since Venice became a part of Los Angeles, city officials have been at work taking over the various departments of the beach government and merging them into that of the large city.

The Venice police force will be increased ten men, according to a recommendation made to the City Council by Chief Heath. Venice has a police force of twenty-one officers and men, while Chief Heath has recommended that the Venice division be organized with a captain, one lieutenant, four sergeants and twenty-five patrolmen. The chief also has asked for authority to purchase for the Venice division one ambulance, one motor car, and two touring cars, at a total cost of $11,500.

VENICE DANCES CLOSED TODAY

Halt on Sunday First Time in Twenty Years

Los Angeles Taking Over Beach Departments

Police Force to be Increased by Ten Members

For the first Sunday since the late Abbot Kinney founded the city of Venice more than twenty years ago, the public dance halls of that beach resort will be closed today, as the result of the consolidation of Venice with Los Angeles, which became effective last Wednesday morning. Sunday public dancing is prohibited in Los Angeles, so that a makeshift closing at midnight last night in Venice, and legally could not be turned on again until one minute past midnight tonight. The Los Angeles City Council has been requested by the Venice amusement men to place Venice in a "dry" zone from Los Angeles Sunday closing laws, but as yet has taken no action on the request.

Since Venice became a part of Los Angeles, city officials have been at work taking over the various departments of the beach government and merging them into that of the large city.

The Venice police force will be increased ten men, according to a recommendation made to the City Council by Chief Heath. Venice has a police force of twenty-one officers and men, while Chief Heath has recommended that the Venice division be organized with a captain, one lieutenant, four sergeants and twenty-five patrolmen. The chief also has asked for authority to purchase for the Venice division one ambulance, one motor car, and two touring cars, at a total cost of $11,500.

Shy Bachelor Leading Role in Class Play

"All men aren't fools; some are bachelors," said an ancient philosopher.

But, according to seniors of the University of Southern California there is nothing so foolish as the girl-bachelor in their annual play, "The Broken Bachelor," which they will present in Howard Auditorium at the University of Southern California Thursday and Friday evenings, December 3 and 4.

Ellsworth Ross, who wrote the play in collaboration with Cecil Carls, is taking the part of the bashful bachelor, and the production is being directed by Mrs. Sarah Taft Tesche.

Mrs. Pauline Kline, as Marie, is to have the feminine lead and will play opposite Ellsworth Ross. Other parts are being taken by Miss Elizabeth Hume, who will play Claire; Dorothy Davis as the flirtatious Mrs. Murray; Leslie Harding as Dr. McCoy; Harry Rockefeller as the policeman; Harriet Pearson as the mysterious woman; William Hogue as Dad Robbins; Selwyn Levinson as Jim Graham; Ralph Holly as the Butler, and John Alwill as the Minister. All of the cast have been prominent in university dramatics and the majority of them appeared in the junior play.

Ray MacDonald will have charge of the stage.

CONDITION OF LABOR TRANQUIL

Large Volume of Winter Building Should Keep Mechanics Busy
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—With indications now apparent that there will be an unusual volume of winter building throughout the United States during the ensuing season, building labor conditions in the country generally are tranquil, excepting in New York City where a serious controversy is now in progress, according to a nationwide survey made yesterday by A. W. Strauss & Co.

Reports show that in a few of the cities building workers are making a demand for a five-day week or a forty-hour week instead of a forty-four-hour week, with the demand prevailing largely in the painters' union. Building mechanics in the country generally appear satisfied and are not disposed to disturb the industry by drastic demands.

In New York City the contract between builders and building mechanics expires December 31, with more than 110,000 workers affected. Thirteen of the trades have had their demands refused by the contractors. Employers are further opposed to granting any increase in wages, and the building union is now in a deadlock.

Some of the typical distribution of the total wages paid to employees of the building industry in New York City is as follows: The annual salary of employees of the building industry is $1,000,000,000, with the average weekly wage of $100,000,000.

CHRISTMAS EXTRAS LOOM

Distribution of Profits Will Reach Large Total; Employees Will Share in Earnings
(BY EARLE E. CROWE)
To American business, the Christmas season has come to mean something more than the exchange of perfunctory holiday greetings. Especially in the last few years since the United States has ridden forward on a great wave of prosperity, the custom has arisen of distributing the profits accumulated during the year in the form of extra dividends to stockholders and generous bonus payments to employees. This Christmas unquestionably will set a new record in the declaration of dividends on "Prosperity preferred."

Here in Los Angeles, the money-cutting will mean a bountiful harvest to investors, speculators, merchants and employees. Nearly every line of business is entering the Christmas season with a full measure of prosperity reflected in earnings reports. And most of them will share liberally with stockholders and employees.

Large Payments
Last year the larger corporations in Los Angeles paid Christmas bonuses to employees ranging all the way from weekly or monthly salaries to percentages of the total wages earned. Whether they are designated as profit-sharing plans or bonuses, the result is the same: a distribution of profits in recognition of efficient and faithful service, and in that way, a good business earnings.

Some of the typical distribution of the total wages paid to employees of the building industry in New York City is as follows: The annual salary of employees of the building industry is $1,000,000,000, with the average weekly wage of $100,000,000.

CALIFORNIA ORANGES IN BIG DEMAND

East Buys More from Here Than from State of Florida
Florida shippers of oranges market less of their product in most of the large eastern markets than do California shippers, although the length of haul is considerably less, according to a study just completed by the Bureau of Railway Economics. Orange shipments from California since 1918 have increased 177 per cent and from Florida, 155 per cent.

Shipments from California, it is said, are more evenly distributed throughout the year than those from Florida. The heaviest movements of California fruit were in the four months from March to June, inclusive, in the last season and amounted to 44 per cent of the year's total. Florida shipments were confined to practically nine months of the year, although 84 per cent of the shipments were from November to March, inclusive.

About one-half of the orange shipments to New York come from California and slightly less than one-half from Florida. In Buffalo, nearly three-fourths of the oranges shipped come from California, and about one-fourth from Florida. In Boston, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Columbus, less than one-half come from Florida and the rest from California. In the Mississippi Valley and west, California oranges supply.

Price fluctuations in the marketing of oranges are due principally to economic factors, and not to freight rates, the bureau determined after an analysis of the grover, wholesaler and consumer. The study covered the period from July, 1924, to April, 1925, and is based on reports from grovers and buyers.

FINANCIER RAPS BANK PRACTICES

Jackson A. Graves is Critic at Group Meeting
Numerous Services Rendered Free Deported
Multiplication of Branches Seen as Futile
To meet competition, the banks in Los Angeles have cut profits and given away services until they do half of their work for nothing. Jackson A. Graves, president of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, and dean of Los Angeles bankers, declared last night at the Ambassador in the principal address before the winter meeting of Group No. 8 of the California Bankers' Association. He also protested against "the senseless multiplication of branch banks."

In a frank criticism of some of the practices arising from the agencies of overcompetition, Mr. Graves said that the banks are foolishly offering customers a multiplicity of services by which the customer's profit is being lost. Banking is a merchandise business, he pointed out, and success lies in the efficient handling of the business when profits are out.

We are the wet nurses of industry, he said, and the dry nurses of commerce. We are the wet nurses of industry, he said, and the dry nurses of commerce. We are the wet nurses of industry, he said, and the dry nurses of commerce.
